IN THE US

THE AMERICAN AUSTRIAN FOUNDATION, INC. (AAF)

A nonprofit, non-governmental organization created to enhance relations between the people of the United States and Austria through exchanges in medicine, business, communications and the arts.

The AAF was founded in 1984 by a group of Americans and Austrians with a keen interest in promoting a positive relationship between the two countries. Through exchanges in medicine, business, communications and the art, the AAF endeavors to use Austria's key location and infrastructure as the basis for bringing East and West together in the interests of peace and prosperity.

The AAF conducts its own programs and oversees its joint endeavors with other American, Austrian, and international institutions. In addition, the AAF provides grants to select organizations and projects serving these goals.

To facilitate the operation of programs in Austria, the Friends of the AAF founded the Salzburg Stiftung of the AAF in 1995.

The Medical Program includes:

The Salzburg Medical Seminars, co-sponsored by the Open Society Institute and private donors, are week-long seminars in medical specialties (for example, urology, cardiology, and emergency care in pediatrics) and include didactic lectures and hands-on workshops taught by American faculty in Salzburg for Eastern European and Austrian physicians.

The Alumni Network and Satellite Symposia

The Medical CD ROM/Communications Project

The Medical Equipment Program

The Medical Internship Program

Exchange Programs:

Andlinger Residency Exchange Program Fellowship, which awards fellowships to American and Austrian medical residents for one month's training in either the United States or Austria during medical residency. The topic for study is to be chosen by the candidate in conjunction with his/her proposed Austrian or American host or the Medical Steering Committee of the AAF. The program aims to supplement the resident's education and to broaden the candidate's experience by exposing him/her to a foreign healthcare system. Humes Visiting Professorship Max Kade Fellowship for Medical Students, which awards fellowships to medical students in their 4th or 5th year of study at an American medical school for a one month rotation in an Austrian medical facility. Subjects for study may be in any recognized area of medicine, including health care management.
